Lecturer of Kinesiology – Search # 67515
Waters College of Health Professions / Department of Health Sciences and Kinesiology

The Department of Health Sciences and Kinesiology in the Waters College of Health Professions invites applications and nominations for the position of Lecturer of Kinesiology. This position is located on the Statesboro campus.

In January 2017, the University System of Georgia Board of Regents voted to consolidate Armstrong State University and Georgia Southern University. The new, 27,000-student university will be named Georgia Southern University with campuses in Savannah, Statesboro, and Hinesville. The expected timeline for the first entering class will be fall 2018. Complete details are available at http://consolidation.georgiasouthern.edu/.

Within this setting, the Department of Health Sciences and Kinesiology is a dynamic and growing unit of over 60 faculty and staff serving over 1,500 majors enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs in areas that include health education and promotion, exercise science, athletic training/sports medicine, sport psychology, nutrition and food science, health administration, health and physical education, sport management, and coaching education. The department strives to become an elite academic unit and this position would contribute to that goal through the development of its Bachelor of Science in Kinesiology (BSK) program.

The BSK prepares undergraduate students in kinesiology with areas of interest in sport performance, allied health, tactical strength and conditioning, inclusive physical activity, personal training/coaching, and community fitness.

Position Description: Reporting to the Chair of the Department, the Lecturer requires teaching and service with a master’s-level degree. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate students in the general field of exercise science, with specific courses to be determined dependent on department needs; serve on committees and participate in official activities at the departmental, college, and university levels. The position is a 10-month, non-tenure track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Required Qualifications:
- Earned master’s degree in exercise physiology, human performance, kinesiology, sports medicine, or a closely related field by August 1, 2018
- Commitment to excellence in teaching and learning as evidenced by a presentation with students present during the campus visit
- Commitment to teaching and service that is consistent with the College’s priorities for the Department and the mission of the University
- Ability to contribute to a positive work environment in the Department, College, and University
- Technological literacy and a commitment to integrate technology in teaching and scholarship
- Commitment to professional service within the University and beyond
• Ability to work in a diverse academic and professional community
• Must be authorized to work in the United States for the duration of employment without assistance from the institution

Preferred Qualifications:
• Potential for online teaching

Screening of applications begins January 31, 2018, and continues until the position is filled. The preferred position starting date is August 1, 2018. A complete application consists of a letter addressing the qualifications cited above; a curriculum vitae; and the names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of at least three professional references. Other documentation may be requested. Only complete applications will be considered. Finalists will be required to submit to a background investigation. Applications and nominations should be sent to:
